

December 2007 Investment Review

The Hereford/DSM Large Cap Fund declined 0.2% for the month of December compared to a 0.4% decline in the Russell 1000 Growth and a 0.7% decline in the S&P500 Total Return. Recent economic indicators are indeed pointing to further slowing in the US. No doubt, the declining housing market and higher energy prices are having an impact. With inflation low, interest rates moderate and valuations reasonable, we see no reason to raise cash. Additionally, we have configured the portfolio for a slower economy and weaker consumer spending in 2008. To us, the current data looks more like one of the several "mid-cycle" slowdowns that have occurred in each of the past decades. These too were brought on by a cycle of Fed tightening. On the other hand if there is a recession, we believe it will be short and shallow, similar to the last two recessions (July 1990 to March 1991 and March to November 2001) which due to Fed easing lasted just eight months each.

Pessimism remains widespread, creating opportunity when the reality is not dire. At present, the portfolio continues to generate weighted earnings growth well in excess of 20% per annum and is selling at 21 x 2008 (next four quarters) earnings. This ratio of P/E to earnings growth is uncharacteristically attractive, especially in light of current interest rates. We continue to believe that we have identified investment opportunities that will generate an attractive rate of return, while remaining aware of economic and company specific risks.

Investment Objective

The investment objective of the sub fund is to provide capital appreciation principally through investments in US-based growing corporations with market capitalizations generally above 2 billion dollars. These companies are chosen for their growth prospects, attractive returns, solid business fundamentals and intelligent management. Companies invested in will often have higher revenue and earnings growth rates and less "sell-side" research coverage than comparable larger capitalization corporations. The sub fund may, on an ancillary basis, invest in US-based companies with lower market capitalizations as well as in non-US based companies. The Compartment may invest in American Depository Receipts and American Depository Shares. The reference benchmark for this strategy is the Russell 1000 Growth Index.
